CASE

Alexander de la Touche, late a Captain En Second of Colonel de Sarlande's late Regiment of Dragoons in Portugal.

HE has faithfully served the Crown Six and Thirty Years, and had a Troop of Dragoons in the abovesaid Regiment, but was superseded in Favour of one Capt. Manley, who was a Captain En Second, by an express Order from the Queen. My Lord Portmore, who was then General, being sensible of his long and faithful Services, gave him a Certificate of his Good Behaviour, and constituted him, till he could better provide for him, a Captain En Second, but as he had a Commission for a Troop, he never took out one, as Captain En Second, so that his Demand of Arrears as Captain En Second remains still unpaid: Tho' he always did the Duty, and has upon all Occasions shew'd his Zeal for his Majesty and the present Government. He therefore hopes this Honourable House will consider the Hardships he has met with, and grant him such Relief, as to this Honourable House shall seem meet.

to this Honorable House. And then more under the Majesty he has not with any other man ever before as Colombrant. He therefore holds this Honorable House with consideration all Occasions from the Year for the Majesty and the benefit of the Kingdom. And he always did the same and has Captain de la Touche, to the King's Command of the same. And that as he has a Commission for a Troop he never took out one as yet. And he could better provide for him, a Captain de la Touche since he has a Certificate of his good behavior, and continues who was then General, being sensible of his long and faithful service, by an express Order from the Queen. And that because
